Design Peer Feedback Response

1. A list of major feedback items (things can be combined as appropriate) provided by your peer(s) and instructor. These should be broken into sections: there should not be a long-bulleted list of items where the discussion for each feedback item is disconnected from the item:

   a. The only major feedback item that was identified by my peer was that there should be an explanation as to what the Pomodoro Method is so that way an individual who is not familiar with the framework to be able to easily pick up and use the tool without having issues or a learning curve.

2. I will incorporate this item because it makes sense to have all of information there for the user for easy recall. This will make it easier for users to retain the information and will ensure that the tool can be used effectively. There will be no negative impact to the planning for the project because it is not affecting the core functionality; rather it is ensuring that the functionality is constantly being used by having it included in the user interface. This should not affect the database design and any impact to the service layer should be negligible.
